

I am quite dismayed at the time delay in allowing cell phone portability. The cell phone and wireline industries have been delaying this consumer access far too long, and it is time to allow portability so that consumers have options. Now we are locked into unacceptable choices.